TO PENITENTIARY AND REFORMATORY

Man who Robbed Unger Snyder Given Stiff Sentence. Boys who Tampered with Corwell's Pocketbook
Go to Huntingdon.

For robbing James Corwell, of Fairfield, while he was asleep, Robert Long and Chester Freeman, two Waynesboro youths, were sentenced in Franklin County Court to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

After the jury had been selected, a Waynesboro lad of about 12 years was the first witness produced by the prosecution. He gave a clear account of how the two defendants had robbed James Corwell, who was drunk at the time, of several bills in the Central House stable, in which the witness had secreted himself during the time when the larceny was committed.

James Corwell took the stand next.
He said that he did not accuse the defendants, but that he lost $16 out of a roll of $24 in bills while in Waynesboro. The defendants entered a plea of guilty and after a request by Charles Walter, counsel for the defense, for leniency for Freeman on account of his ill health, were sentenced to be committed to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

Charles Shrader of Waynesboro was found guilty of larceny from the person. J. Unger Snyder formerly of near Gettysburg, told of the robbery which occurred while he was asleep and was recently reported in The Times. Shrader told the court that he had been in the Huntingdon reformatory and in the penitentiary before and said that in all three cases the crime was due to drink. He received a sentence of from three to four years in the "pen" and fine and costs.

John G. McCoy, arrested here some weeks ago by Sheriff Thompson on a charge of the larceny of a horse and buggy, was acquitted this week in Franklin County Court. The charge grew out of McCoy's prolonged absence from Greencastle where he had procured the team and was the result of the liveryman fearing that his property would not be returned. Though acquitted of the larceny charge, McCoy was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs in the action.

ENTERTAINED CLASSES

Many Guests at Pleasant Social Affair in Bendersville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Weaver, of Bendersville, delightfully entertained about one hundred guests Thursday evening, members of the Ladies' and Men's Bible Classes of the Lutheran church, Bendersville. A brief address of welcome was given by Mrs. Weaver, responded to by Mr. Brough. A recitation by Miss Shull, short reading by several of the ladies and several violin selections by Miss Kelly, of Gettysburg accompanied by Miss Lillian Weaver were well rendered. A black face sketch, followed by singing, was given by Miss Weaver assisted by her two brothers and was greatly enjoyed by the audience. Ample refreshments were served and at the close of the evening a vote of thanks was given Mr. and Mrs. Weaver by Mrs. S. E. Peters in behalf of the guests.

ODD RULING

Hour of Funeral Changed on Account of Government Order.

On account of a department ruling which prohibits the interment of bodies in national cemeteries after twelve o'clock, noon, the funeral of William Epley which had been arranged for two o'clock Saturday afternoon will be held at ten o'clock in the morning, instead. The service will be held from the home of Mrs. Frederick Pfeffer, Baltimore street, and will be conducted by Rev. J. B. Baker.

BADLY BRUISED

Near Town.

Dr. William Biggs was thrown from his buggy and dragged some distance
Thursday afternoon when his horse took fright at the stone crusher at Keebler's Hill. He was painfully bruised but not seriously hurt.

BETTER FOREIGN APPLE MARKETS

More Demand from Foreign Countries than Expected, Says Bulletin.
South America Good Place for
First Class Local Fruit.

That Adams County fruit will find ready market in some foreign countries and especially in South America
this year is the prediction of many who are close to the situation. Last year the growers feared serious trouble through the war, in view of the fact that about twenty five per cent. of the local fruit is exported. The most recent bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture
says, however,

"The effect of the war upon the industry has been found to be less disastrous than was apprehended. Because of the cheapness of the fruit, consumption was stimulated until the exports far exceeded expectations. The German ports being closed, large quantities were shipped direct to the Scandinavian markets for the first time and this should prove of considerable benefit in future years. Direct trade with South America has also increased greatly and should continue to do so, especially if the growing trade in meat products affords
additional return facilities for shipment.
Careful selection, grading and packing by hand is, however, essential to the delivery of the fruit in good condition and only stock that may be classed as Fancy or Extra Fancy
should be exported to South American ports."

The question of co-operation in marketing the fruit is also taken up,
the bulletin stating:

"Where apples are boxed
by growers' associations, a large percentage of the output and in securing uniformity in the pack and advantageous distribution of the crop are much more successful than individual producers in other sections. Where individuals act independently there is little uniformity in grading and much poor fruit is shipped which, in seasons of large production such as 1914, cannot be disposed of profitably."

"Observations in the Chicago market showed that 25 per cent of the arrivals in carlot bulk, or the equivalent of 350 carloads, and 10 per cent of about 150 carloads, were of such poor quality that the price
would not have paid the freight charges had these apples been shipped by themselves. By throwing out this poor fruit the farmers would not only have saved the cost of packing and shipping, but would have cleared the market for their good stock. Similar conditions were found elsewhere."

"In this connection it is said that the grade and package laws now in operation in a number of States are proving effective in stabilizing the market. Uniformity in state legislation of this kind, the authors state, is,
however, most desirable."

QUAIL FROM MEXICO

Game Preserves will be Stocked with Imported Birds.

Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, secretary of the State Game Commission, has arranged with the national government for admission to this State, under proper inspection, of quail from Mexico for the stocking of State preserves
this fall and winter. The commission has been endeavoring to secure quail
in other States, but has found all of them opposed to the birds being taken away, and negotiations are now under way to get the birds from people who can obtain them from Mexico. It is improbable that any Cuban quail will be bought, as experiments with them
did not prove successful.

DIFFERENT CONCERN

Two Companies with Names almost the Same.

The case heard this week by Squire Harnish in which Clayton Bucher and C. W. Bucher were the defendants was against the American Union Telephone and Telegraph Company, not the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which is an entirely separate concern.

COMING SHOW

Coddles, the Funny Housemaid in A Pair of Sixes.

One of the most original comic characters new to the stage is that of "Coddles," the eccentric housemaid in
"A Pair of Sixes," which will be seen at Walter's Theatre, Wednesday evening, September 15. She is quaint in appearance and is prominent in the action of the play through her infatuation for Boggs, one of the rich partners who is forced to act as butler in his partner's household. Coddles believes that he is a sure-enough servant and sets her cap for him, greatly to his distress. The character made such a hit in New York that the newspapers devoted columns to it. The part will be played here by the well known actress, Miss Selma Hall.—advertisement

HOUSE BURNED

Family Compelled to Flee to Save their Lives.

About one o'clock this morning fire completely destroyed the dwelling house on the Conrad Cluck farm, in Cumberland township, about two miles from town. The place was occupied by Mrs. Thompson and family, all of whom fled in their night clothing, leaving their furniture to the flames. The cause of the fire is not known.

HOUSE SOLD

erty to County Man.

Hamilton township for $453.00.

HEAVY FREIGHT ON READING TOO

Four Freights Each Way Required
to Handle Business here. Largest Volume in Many Months. Using Larger Engines.

While the Western Maryland is handling its hundreds of loads of coal and other freight daily through Gettysburg, the Reading is showing equal activity in its local yards and the traffic just now is heavier than it has been for many months. No less than four freights each way are required daily to care for the business.

Heavier engines have been put on the road between Gettysburg and Harrisburg and most of the trains are half again as long as the old freights which used to enter and leave this place. As an example of the amount being taken up the heavy grades on the mountain it is stated at the office of the Reading to-day that one train leaving here carried 800,000 tons, and another 650,000 tons.

Much of the incoming freight is in consignments of fertilizer to and from Baltimore, which is rapidly becoming the market center for that product. Carload after carload is shipped through here.

The condition in the Gettysburg yards of the Reading is reflected all along the line to Harrisburg, and it is said that the Rutherford yards at that city are so full of freight that it is impossible to get enough crews to man the eastbound trains.

The business being done through here just now by both the Western Maryland and the Reading will explain to residents of the western part of town the frequent whistling of the locomotives and the general activity
in the yards.

LITTLE TOT BURNED

Child Rushes from House with Burning Doll. Painfully Hurt.

Frances Belz, the nine year old daughter of Mrs. Anna Belz, of Mc-Sherrytown, had her right hand badly burned and her arm scorched. The accident occurred while Frances was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
C. E. Mattingly, who live nearby. The little girl held a celluloid doll above
a lamp and the doll caught on fire.
The little girl with the burning doll
in her hand ran out through the kitchen into the back yard. Her right hand and arm were burned from the end of her fingers almost to the elbow. She was taken to the office of a physician who attended to her injuries.

A four year old son of Frank Kuhn,
of Hamilton township, fell from the board being used in playing sea-saw and broke his left arm above the wrist. A physician reduced the fracture.

FELL OFF MOVING MERRY-GO-ROUND

Young Man Narrowly Escaped being Killed when his Foot Stipped.
Dragged around as Machinery Revolved Rapidly.

That Harry Brown, a Baltimore
lad spending his vacation at Pen Mar, escaped serious and, perhaps, fatal injury, at the carousel on the park grounds, is due to the presence of mind and quick action of Gerald S.
Hill, Baltimore, a guest at the Mt.
Vernon hotel.

Young Brown had purchased a ticket for the merry-go-round and endeavored to get on one of the horses when the machine was in motion. He made a mis-calculation in stepping upon the platform and one foot was caught in a stirrup strap, hanging from a horse. He was thrown to the floor and dragged.

With each circle the machine gained momentum and swung the boy so that his head several times narrowly missing being battered against the heavy posts of the roof.

Before the machine had gained full headway, young Hill saw the mishap, sprang upon the platform, worked his way around to where the boy was fastened and cut the strap from the stirrup, letting the boy loose.

He was picked up in a badly bruised condition but not internally hurt.

ANOTHER CELEBRATION

Harrisburg Will Enthuse over Fourteen Years of Progress.

Under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce the citizens of Harrisburg are preparing for a great municipal celebration—September 23, 24
and 25, to commemorate a remarkable program of civic improvements, 1901-1915. This celebration will include a spectacular river carnival, with decorated floats and aquatic sports; a public reception of officials and others prominently identified with the sev-

general decorations of the city under proclamation of the mayor, and other features.

U. S. ASKS FOR RECALL OF DUMBA

Not Acceptable For War Munition Activities.

TRIED TO CRIPPLE FACTORIES

Sent Letter by American to Home Government Detailing Plans for Calling Out Men in Plants.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Ambassador Penfield at Vienna was instructed by cable to inform the Austro-Hungarian government that Dr. Constantin Teodor Dumba no longer is acceptable as an envoy to the United States, and to ask for his recall.

Secretary Lansing formally announced the action. It was the answer of the American government to Dr. Dumba's explanation of his intercepted letter to Vienna, outlining plans for handicapping plants in this country making war supplies for the allies.

Ambassador Penfield was instructed by cable to deliver the following note to the foreign office:

"Mr. Constantin Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Washington, has admitted that he proposed to his government plans to instigate strikes in American manufacturing plants engaged in the production of munitions of war.

"The information reached this government through a copy of a letter of the ambassador to his government. The bearer was an American citizen named [redacted] who was traveling under an American passport. The ambassador has admitted that he employed Archibald to bear official dispatches from him to this government.

"By reason of the admitted purpose and intent of Mr. Dumba to conspire to cripple legitimate industries of the people of the United States and to interrupt their legitimate trade, and by reason of the flagrant violation of diplomatic propriety in employing an American citizen protected by an American passport as a secret bearer of official dispatches through the lines of the enemy of Austria-Hungary, the president directs me to inform your excellency that Mr. Dumba is no longer acceptable to the government of the United States as the ambassador of his imperial majesty at Washington.

"Believing that the imperial and royal government will realize that the government of the United States has no alternative but to request the recall of Mr. Dumba on account of his improper conduct, the government of the United States expresses its deep regret that this course has become necessary and assures the imperial and royal government that it sincerely desires to continue the cordial and friendly relations which exist between the United States and Austria-Hungary."

WON'T PAY FOR U. S. LIVES

Germany Refuses to Grant Indemnity for Submarine Victims.

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Germany expresses regret for the loss of American lives in the sinking of the Arabic, but states positively that no indemnity for such loss can be granted the United States.

The text of the note was made public here. The expression of regret is wholehearted and without equivocation. The imperial German government says that it "deeply regrets" that lives were lost, not merely specifying American lives, but apparently including the lives of all non-combatants. This, in a measure, is an evident acceptance of the principle insisted upon by President Wilson that the lives of all non-combatants even when traveling on belligerent ships should be held sacred.

Respecting the loss of American lives in the destruction of the Arabic, the imperial German government says that it particularly expresses this regret on account of the death of American citizens. The refusal to grant indemnity is absolute, and will stand even if the submarine commander should have mistaken the aggressive intentions of the Arabic.

Big Guns Save Gorz.

Rome, Sept. 10.—Gorz, the chief Austrian fortress on the Isonzo line and the object of the main attack of the Italian invaders because it is the key to Trieste, is still in the range of the Austrian artillery. This was the semi-official explanation given for the failure of the Italians to occupy the Austrian stronghold. As long as the big Austrian howitzers control the zone it will be impossible for the Italians to invest Gorz completely.

Bulgars Fortify Port.

Paris, Sept. 10.—According to a dispatch to the "Temps" from Budegatch, the Bulgarians are fortifying that port and its environs. Heavy guns are being placed at all strategic points; eighteen large pieces having been taken through the city last night.

GERMANS MAKE BIG GAINS IN ARGONNE

Crown Prince's Army in Terrific Drive at Verdun Line.

Berlin, Sept. 10.—An important victory in the Argonne was announced by the war office.

French positions over a front of two kilometers (1 1/4 miles) and 300 to 500 yards deep were captured.

The statement follows: "In the Argonne, northeast of Vienna Le Chateau, Wurttemberg and Lorraine regiments began an attack which was supported effectively by artillery. The infantry charged and took possession of positions of the enemy at several points of support over a front of more than two kilometers and from 300 to 500 meters deep. Among the works taken was one often mentioned by the French, at Marle Therese. We captured thirty-eight officers, 1999 men, forty-nine machine guns, sixty-four mine throwers and one cannon."

French Admit Loss.

Paris, Sept. 10.—Terrific fighting occurred in the Argonne, with the Germans continuing the assault launched with 24,000 men against the French positions. The statement by the war office admits the loss of a portion of a French trench, but says the French troops captured some prisoners.

It is here that the crown prince is making a desperate effort to pierce the French lines and open the way to the great fortress of Verdun.

VERDICT AGAINST STOUGH

Arbitrators Award $2700 to Hazleton Councillman Accused by Evangelist.

Wilkes-Barre, Sept. 10.—A verdict for $2700 was returned by the arbitrators against Rev. Henry W. Stough, of Wheaton, Ill., in favor of William Cullen, a councillor of Hazleton, whom the evangelist was charged with slandering at a revival campaign in Hazleton early last year.

The finding followed a $50,000 suit filed after the evangelist accused Cullen and three other citizens and politicians of being responsible for alleged immoral conditions in the city. The arbitrators, in making their findings, said:

"There is no special privilege attached to a clergyman, much less an evangelist. There would be higher and better grounds for according special privilege to a clergyman, than to a pastor of a congregation, than to an evangelist, the clergyman being more or less permanently located and having a local habitation. The evangelist, on the other hand, is a mere wanderer, here today, gone tomorrow, accountable to nobody, and answerable only to the law."

New Steamship Line to Spain. Madrid, Sept. 10.—Announcement is made here that a new steamship line between Spain and the United States is to be established. The steamers will ply directly between Vigo and New York. It is said King Alfonso will give his support to the enterprise, and that it has also received influential backing in New York.

Forty Killed at Zebrugge. Amsterdam, Sept. 10.—The Telegrams says that forty German men were killed and hundreds employed in military works were wounded when a British fleet recently bombarded Zebrugge. Sixty shells were fired.

RUSSIANS ASSAIL FOE IN GALICIA

Petrograd Announces Success in Tarnopol Region.

TAKE PRISONERS AND GUNS

Germans All Checked on Dvina in Campaign Against Riga—Driven Back Across Serezh River.

Petrograd, Sept. 10.—The tide of battle on the eastern front has turned.

Not only has the Austro-German offensive, which had been unarrested since its beginning last May, come to a standstill, but the Russians have turned on the southern wing and have administered a telling reverse to the Austro-Germans operating in that region.

In the Tarnopol front, in Galicia, 30,000 Austro-Germans who had prepared for a vigorous offensive, were surprised by a Russian contingent and beaten back across the River Serezh, with a loss of 8000 men, 200 officers and 30 guns, in addition to heavy casualties. The Russians also won an important success further south, where 2500 prisoners were taken in the region of Trembowla.

The official communication follows: "On the Riga-Dvinsk front the general situation remains unchanged. German attempts to advance Tuesday in the region of the railway station at Gross Ekau (south of Riga) and Neuhut were repulsed. In the direction of Dvinsk there were only unimportant outposts actions. The fight for the River Lautz continues. In order to occupy a more covered position our troops removed a little to the right of Lautz.

"South of the Niemen the enemy delivered extremely stubborn attacks in the region of Wolkowysk, on both sides of the railway leading to Slonim.

"In Galicia, near Tarnopol, we achieved great success against the Germans. The German third guard division (12,000 men) and the forty eighth reserve division (12,000 men) reinforced by an Austrian brigade (6000 men), with great quantities of heavy and light artillery, according to statements made by prisoners, had been preparing for several days for a decisive attack. This was fixed for the night of Tuesday-Wednesday. Forestalling the enemy, our troops took the offensive, and after a stubborn fight on the River Dolkono the Germans were completely defeated Tuesday evening.

"At the end of the engagement the enemy developed an artillery fire of most extraordinary intensity. Only the impossibility of replying with the same weight of metal prevented us from further developing the success we had obtained. The Germans, besides suffering enormous losses in killed and wounded, left prisoners in our hands more than 800 officers and 8000 men. We captured thirty guns, fourteen of which were of heavy caliber, many machine guns, gun limbers and other booty.

"Further south, in the region of Trembowla, on the 7th, we dislodged the enemy from a series of villages, making prisoners over forty officers and nearly 2500 soldiers, together with three guns and a dozen machine guns.

Berlin Claims Advance. Berlin, Sept. 10.—Steady advances are claimed for the Germans in the eastern theatre of the war, in a communication from the war office.

The official statement follows: "From the Baltic as far east as Oltta there has been no important change. Between Jersky and the Niemen the enemy is defending himself stubbornly. Our troops, near Skidel south of the Niemen, defeated the enemy. This group has taken 3550 prisoners and ten machine guns.

"The Melvianska has been reached at various places during the fighting with the rear guards of the enemy. "The northern bank of the Jasoldka has been gained near Chomsk. The enemy has been compelled to evacuate his positions near Bereza-Kartuska. Between the Sporowski and the canal we gained further ground."

RICH WIDOW KILLED BY BURGLAR BAND

Hall Boy Confesses Plot Resulting in Death of Woman.

New York, Sept. 10.—Owney Talas, a Russian Finn, for ten weeks employed as a hallboy in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, an aged and wealthy widow, who met death at the hands of masked men, who robbed her of gems valued at $10,000, was arrested after he had confessed to having played a part in the crime. He was formally charged with murder.

The Nichols home is in Seventy-ninth street, two doors from Fifth avenue, in New York's most exclusive residential section.

Preliminary examination of Mrs. Nichols' body revealed the probability that she had died of fright and not of strangulation, as at first reported. Mr. Lord, deputy police commissioner said.

Although the burglars stripped their victim's fingers and ears of diamonds and other jewels, valued at $10,000, they failed to rifle the strong box of her safe, in which she kept gems valued at from $250,000 to $500,000.

That part of the confession of the hall boy, or footman, given out by Inspector Faurot, who investigated the case, was to the effect that one of the three robbers was Arthur Wal-demar, a Finn, whose real name is Waldemar. He was discharged as second butler by Mrs. Nichols about five weeks ago.

Walters, according to the alleged confession, needed money and kept begging Talas to permit him and some other men to enter the house and rob Mrs. Nichols. Talas consented on the promise of Walters that the gangster would not be rough with the widow.

U. S. FLAG SAVES LINER

Submarine Rose Near American Boat, but Fired No Torpedo.

New York, Sept. 10.—Some of the 300 passengers arriving here aboard the American liner New York from Liverpool say they had been informed by officers on the ship that on the outward voyage, when near the coast of Ireland, a German submarine had come to the surface, surveyed the vessel and then leisurely submerged.

The undersea craft arose off the starboard bow of the New York and remained on the surface only a short time. The New York was not halted. It was said.

ACCIDENT ON DECATUR

An Old Recipe To Darken Hair

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turn Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You simply wash your hair with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

FOR : PRESIDENT : JUDGE

51ST JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Composed of

ADAMS AND FULTON COUNTIES

J. L. BUTT,
Of Gettysburg.

Jacob Lawrence Butt, born in Highland Township, living a quarter of a century in Franklin Township, Adams County, and more than twenty-five years in Gettysburg, has all the endowment of learning and judgment that years and experience can give a candidate for the President Judgeship. Born in 1860, he is now fifty-four years of age, and would bring to the Bench a full measure of maturity, legal acumen and ability.

J. L. Butt is more than the successful lawyer, with a large clientele. He has been connected with and in intimate touch with many important lines of activity of the people of the county, giving him a knowledge and an appreciation of our people, their environments and conditions. He was born on a farm and remained there until about twenty years of age, when he entered Pennsylvania College, and graduated from that institution in the Class of 1884. He read law with the late J. C. Neely, Esquire, and was admitted to practice in 1889. He immediately entered the law office of J. A. Kitzmiller, and remained with him in his office until after his death, succeeding largely to his practice.

While Mr. Butt spent the early part of his life on a farm he imbibed a strong fondness for farming and as he grew older and was able to put aside a portion of his earnings from his practice he invested them in farms, until to-day he is the owner of considerable real estate in this county. The farms he has purchased almost immediately showed the touch of his fondness for them by the improved appearance of the buildings, the fences and the more productive-ness of the soil. More than one poor, dilapidated farm has he bought and converted it into a prosperous, nice-looking fertile property. Such a course is a great boon and benefit to a community, because it improves the appearance of that community and adds to its wealth and general appearance, and it is highly beneficial to any community to have money invested in this way, in the improvement of agricultural property. To invest it in stocks and bonds and draw interest and income therefrom rarely benefits any one else but the holder.

He is one of the foremost stock breeders of the county and is as fond of his stock as of his farms. They have received the most skillful treatment and handling, with the result that the horse flesh of the county has been greatly improved.

He is also a fruit grower and has taken enthusiastically to the development of what many consider the county's greatest industry and best product. He has always followed the best improved methods in the planting, care of and marketing of the crops of his orchards, and encouraging such methods in every way in his power so that the people of the county may enjoy the best returns from this crop. Mr. Butt's activity along these lines was illustrated in the recent movement, in which he was prominent, to secure a resident farm advisor from the Government to help the farmers solve their difficulties, an official whose salary is paid by the Government and his expenses are met by the county associations and individuals.

He is also perhaps the largest cattle feeder in the county, and his judgment as to the price to be paid in the fall for feeders, as well as the price to be obtained for the fattened cattle in the spring, is frequently sought by his acquaintances and neighbors, which is always given to the best of his judgment, thereby benefiting his friends and his neighbors by imparting to them his judgment on these matters.

He is also a large employer of labor, having continuously in his employ from forty to eighty men, who are always paid fair wages, and the most cordial relations have always existed between him and his employees.

J. L. Butt has been a Director and Counsel for the First National Bank of Gettysburg for years, and in this way has come into intimate touch with hundreds of the people of the county; and he has always stood for the encouragement of home industries, home credit and home efforts. He has always been interested in the development of Gettysburg industries, that give employment to Gettysburg people, making the town a better industrial and commercial center.

He has been interested in the politics of the county but has never been a candidate for any office excepting town council, an office without salary, for the good one may do his town.

Mr. Butt is regarded as a man of excellent judgment, keen insight into business affairs, and his opinion and judgment upon various business matters is frequently sought by his business associates and others.

In all these and many other intimate ways the people of the county have come to know Mr. Butt and trust him as a man of the highest sense of honor, one who never gives his word without fulfilling it to the last letter, one who has been trusted and has been true in all kinds of fiduciary relations.

In the settlement of hundreds of estates, in the trial of cases and in the counseling of individuals, banks and corporations, he has shown that intimate knowledge of legal principles that his judgment has been widely sought and characterized as safe and sound.

The candidacy of Mr. Butt has received the enthusiastic indorsement and approval of many citizens with whom he has had relations along the lines of his many activities and they are commending him to many others as one who, as President Judge of our Courts, will give all who come before him a square deal, who will from this crop. Mr. Butt's activity along these lines was illustrated in

School.

NEXT morning, when he had once more resumed the dreadful burden of education, it seemed infinitely duller. And yet what pleasant sight is there than a schoolroom well filled with children of those sprouting years just before the teens? The casual visitor, gazing from the teacher's platform upon these busy little heads, needs only a blunted memoir to experience the most agreeable and exhilarating sensations. Still, for the greater part the children are unconscious of the happiness of their condition, for nothing is more pathetically true than that we never know when we are well off.

The boys in a public school are less aware of their happy state than are the girls, and of all the boys in his room probably Penrod himself had the least appreciation of his felicity.

He sat staring at an open page of a textbook, but not studying, not even reading, not even thinking. Nor was he lost in a reverie. His mind's eye was shut, as his physical eye might have been, for the optic nerve, flaccid with ennui, conveyed nothing whatever of the printed page upon which the orb of vision was partially focused. Penrod was doing something very unusual and rare, something almost never accomplished except by colored people or by a boy in school on a spring day—he was doing really nothing at all. He was merely a state of being.

From the street a sound stole in through the open window, and abhorring nature began to fill the vacuum called Penrod Schofield, for the sound was the spring song of a mouth organ coming down the sidewalk. The windows were intentionally above the level of the eyes of the seated pupils, but the picture of the musician was plain to Penrod, painted for him by a quality in the runs and trills partaking of the oboe of the callopie and of cats in anguish—an exonerating sweetness obtained only by the wallowing, wallowing yellow-pink palm of a hand whose back was bronzed black and shiny. The music came from the street and passed beneath the window, accompanied by the care-free shuffling of a pair of old shoes scuffling synopses on the cement sidewalk. It passed into the distance, became faint and blurred, and was gone. Emotion stirred in Penrod a great and poignant desire, but (perhaps fortunately) no fairy godmother made her appearance. Otherwise Penrod would have gone down the street in a black skin, playing the mouth organ, and an unprepared colored youth would have found himself enjoying educational advantages for which he had no ambition whatever.

Roused from perfect apathy, the boy cast about the schoolroom an eye weary to nausea by the perpetual vision of the neat teacher upon the platform, the backs of the heads of the pupils in front of him and the monotonous stretches of blackboard threateningly defaced by arithmetical formula and other insignia of torture. Above the blackboard the walls of the high room were of white plaster—white with the qualified whiteness of old snow in a soft coal town. This dismal expanse was broken by four lithographic portraits, votive offerings of a thoughtful publisher. The portraits were of good and great men, kind men, men who loved children. Their faces were noble and benevolent. But the lithographs offered the only rest for the eyes of children fatigued by the everlasting sameness of the schoolroom. Long day after long day, interminable week in and interminable week out, last month on vast month, the pupils sat with those four portraits beaming kindness down upon them. The faces became permanent in the consciousness of the children; they became an obsession. In and out of school the children were never free of them. The four faces haunted the minds of children falling asleep. They hung upon the minds of children waking at night; they rose forebodingly in the minds of children waking in the morning; they became monstrously alive in the minds of children lying sick of fever. Never while the children of that schoolroom lived would they be able to forget one detail of the four lithographs. The hand of Longfellow was fixed for them forever in his beard. And by a simple and unconscious association of ideas Penrod Schofield was accumulating an antipathy for the gentle Longfellow, and for James Russell Lowell, and for Oliver Wendell Holmes, and for John Greenleaf Whittier which would never permit him to peruse a work of one of those great New Englanders without a feeling of personal resentment.

His eyes fell slowly and listlessly from the brow of Whittier to the beard of reddish hair belonging to Victorine Klondike, the little thirteen-year-old girl who sat directly in front of him. Victorine's back was as familiar to Penrod as the necktie of Oliver Wendell Holmes. So was her early colored plaid waist. He hated the waist as he hated Victorine herself without knowing why. Enforced companionship in large quantities and on an equal basis between the sexes appears to sterilize the affections, and schoolroom romances are few.

Victorine's hair was thick and the bristly glints in it were beautiful, but Penrod was very tired of it. A tiny knot of green ribbon finished off the braid and kept it from unraveling, and beneath the ribbon there was a final wisp of hair which was just long enough to repose upon Penrod's desk when Victorine leaned back in her seat. It was there now. Thoughtfully he took the braid between thumb and forefinger and, without disturbing Victorine, dipped the end of it and the green ribbon into the inkwell of his desk. He brought hair and ribbon forth dripping purple ink and partially dried them on a blotter, though, a moment later, when Victorine leaned forward, they were still able to add a few picturesque touches to the plaid waist.

Rudolph Krauss, across the aisle from Penrod, watched the operation with protruding eyes, fascinated. Inspired to imitation, he took a piece of chalk from his pocket and wrote "Rais" across the shoulder blades of the boy in front of him, then looked across apprehensively to Penrod for tokens of congratulation. Penrod yawned.

Half the members of the class passed out to a recreation room, the emphysematous Victorine among them, and Miss Spence started the remaining half through the ordeal of trial by mathematics. Several boys and girls were sent to the blackboard, and Penrod, spared for the moment, followed their operations a little while with his eyes, but not with his mind; then, sinking deeper in his seat, limply abandoned the effort. His eyes remained open, but saw nothing. The routine of the arithmetical lesson reached his ears in faint, meaningless sounds, but he heard nothing, and yet, this time, he was profoundly occupied. He had drifted away from the painful land of facts, and floated now in a new sea of fancy which he had just discovered.

Maturity forgets the marvelous realism of a boy's day dreams, how colorful they glow, rosy and living, and how opaque the curtain closing down between the dreamer and the actual world. That curtain is almost sound proof, too, and causes more throat trouble among parents than is suspected.

The nervous monotony of the schoolroom inspires a sometimes unbearable longing for something astonishing to happen, and as every boy's fundamental desire is to do something astonishing himself, so as to be the center of all human interest and awe, it was natural that Penrod should discover in fancy the delightful secret of self levitation. He found, in this curious series of imaginings, during the lesson in arithmetic, that the atmosphere may be navigated as by a swimmer under water, but with infinitely greater ease and with perfect comfort in breathing. In his mind he extended his arms gracefully, at a level with his shoulders, and delicately paddled the air with his hands, which at once caused him to be drawn up out of his seat and elevated gently to a position about midway between the floor and the ceiling, where he came to an equilibrium and floated; a sensation not the less exquisite because of the screams of his fellow pupils, appalled by the miracle. Miss Spence herself was amazed and frightened, but he only smiled down carelessly upon her when she commanded him to return to earth, and then, when she climbed upon a desk to pull him down, he quietly paddled himself a little higher, leaving his toes just out of her reach. Next he swam through a few slow somersaults to show his mastery of the new art, and, with the shouting of the dumfounded scholars ringing in his ears, turned on his side and floated swiftly out of the window, immediately rising above the house-tops, while people in the street below him shrieked, and a trolley car stopped dead in wonder.

With almost no exertion he paddled himself, many yards at a stroke, to the girls' private school where Marjorie Jones was a pupil. Marjorie Jones of the amber curls and the golden voice! Long before the "Pageant of the Table Round" she had offered Penrod a hundred proofs that she considered him wholly undesirable and ineligible. At the Friday afternoon dancing class she consistently incited and led the laughter at him whenever Professor Barret singled him out for admonition in matters of feet and decorum. And but yesterday she had chided him for his shabby lack of memory in failing to bring her green bag on the way to Sunday school. "Well,

I expect you must forget I told you never to speak to me again! If I was a boy I'd be too proud to come hanging around people that don't speak to me, even if I was the worst boy in town!" So she flouted him. But now as he floated in through the window of her classroom and swam gently along the ceiling like an escaped toy balloon she fell upon her knees beside her lit desk and, lifting up her arms toward him, cried with love and admiration:

"Oh, Penrod!"

He negligently kicked a globe from the high chandelier and, smiling coldly, floated out through the hall to the front steps of the school, while Marjorie followed, imploring him to grant her one kind look.

In the street an enormous crowd had gathered, headed by Miss Spence and a brass band, and a cheer from a hundred thousand throats shook the very ground as Penrod swam overhead. Marjorie knelt upon the steps and watched adoringly while Penrod took the drum major's baton and, performing sinuous evolutions above the crowd, led the band. Then he threw the baton so high that it disappeared from sight. But he went swiftly after it, a double delight, for he had not only the delicious sensation of rocketing safely up and up into the blue sky, but also that of standing in the crowd below, watching and admiring himself as he dwindled to a speck, disappeared and then, emerging from a cloud, came speeding down, with the baton in his hand, to the level of the tree-tops, where he beat time for the band and the vast throng and Marjorie Jones, who all united in the "Star Spangled Banner" in honor of his aerial achievements. It was a great moment.

It was a great moment, but something seemed to threaten it. The face of Miss Spence looking up from the crowd grew too vivid—unpleasantly vivid. She was beckoning him and shouting: "Come down, Penrod Schofield! Penrod Schofield, come down here!" He could hear her above the band and the singing of the multitude. She seemed intent on spoiling everything. Marjorie Jones was weeping to show how sorry she was that she had formerly slighted him and throwing kisses to prove that she loved him, but Miss Spence kept jumping between him and Marjorie, incessantly calling his name.

He grew more and more irritated with her. He was the most important person in the world and was engaged in proving it to Marjorie Jones and the whole city, and yet Miss Spence seemed to feel she still had the right to order him about as she did in the old days when he was an ordinary school boy. He was furious. He was sure she wanted him to do something disagreeable. It seemed to him that she had screamed "Penrod Schofield!" thousands of times.

"Penrod Schofield! Penrod Schofield, come down here!"

From the beginning of his aerial experiments in his own schoolroom he had not opened his lips, knowing somehow that one of the requirements for air floating is perfect silence on the part of the float; but, finally, irritated beyond measure by Miss Spence's clamorous insistence, he was unable to restrain an indignant rebuke and immediately came to earth with a frightful bump.

Miss Spence, in the flesh—had directed toward the physical body of the absent Penrod an inquiry as to the fractional consequences of dividing seventeen apples fairly among three boys, and she was surprised and displeased to receive no answer, although to the best of her knowledge and belief he was looking fixedly at her. She repeated her question crisply without visible effect, then summoned him by name with increasing urgency. He glanced at her, while all the fellow pupils turned to stare at the gazing boy. She advanced a step from the platform.

"Penrod Schofield!"

"Oh, my goodness!" he shouted suddenly. "Can't you keep still a minute?"

Use whitening and water and a soft cloth. This does not destroy the paint as a more vigorous cleanser does. ## 20 DEAD, 86 HURT IN ZEPPELIN RAID

London Suffers More Heavily
Than Ever Before.

ENSOR WITHHOLDS DETAILS

Bombs Were Hurling on Trafalgar
Square and Many Fires Were Started
—Docks Hit, Says Berlin.

London, Sept. 10.—Twenty persons were killed and eighty-six injured in the second Zeppelin raid on England to occur within twenty-four hours.

Hostile aircraft passed over the London counties, which they visited eleven Tuesday night, and added to the area an attack on the London district, dropping incendiary and explosive bombs.

Newspaper comments indicate that the raid struck close to the city's center. It is described by the "Pall Mall Gazette" as "Londoners' first glimpse of the war at close quarters." The "Evening Standard" speaks of the coolness shown everywhere, but warns the public against the "noticeably widespread and dangerous disposition to regard the affair as a spectacle of the war."

It suggests that in addition to the Zeppelin, which within limits "is a terrible instrument of war," there is also danger from anti-aircraft guns. Therefore the public, it says, would be well advised to take aerial visitors more seriously than it did.

In the Zeppelin raid on the east coast on Tuesday night ten persons were killed and twenty-four were wounded, a majority of the victims being women and children. Fifteen small dwelling houses were destroyed or seriously damaged and several fires were started. The fires were promptly extinguished.

The attack of Wednesday night brings up the total of casualties from Zeppelin raids to 122 killed and 341 injured. On the previous night thirteen persons were killed and forty-three wounded.

Great crowds visited the place where bombs were dropped Tuesday night to view the destruction and seek mementoes. One striking incident of this raid was the great number of women and children killed, maimed or wounded, due chiefly to the fact that they were in bed at the time of the raid. As usual, recruiting received a small impetus as a direct result of the raid.

Docks Hit, Says Berlin.
Berlin, Sept. 10.—The war office announced that in Zeppelin raids over England on Tuesday and Wednesday night explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped on docks and other port establishments in London and vicinity. "The effect was very satisfactory," says the report. An attack on Nancy by an air squadron is also announced.

Trafalgar Square Hit.
Chicago, Sept. 10.—E. Percy Noel of the "Daily News" staff of correspondents, cabled from London: "Daily News" staff and office safe. He also sent this second message: "All well." No doubt this is all the censor would permit him to send about a Zeppelin raid on London. It is evident that German bombs fell near the London office of the "Daily News," which is in Northumberland avenue, within a stone's throw of the Charing Cross railroad station, the admiralty building, the National gallery and several great hotels. It is within a short walk of St. James palace, Westminster abbey and the parliament buildings.

Aviators Drop Bombs on Paris.
Paris, Sept. 10.—German aeroplanes flew over the suburbs of Paris, dropping a large number of bombs. The extent of the damage is not yet known.

THIEVES HOLD UP CASHIER

Steal $1000 and Escape, Leaving Victim in Serious Condition.
Washington, Pa., Sept. 10.—Two bandits attacked and seriously injured Charles Selbert, night cashier at the Washington station of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, stole $1000 and escaped.

Bloodhounds have been trailing and a score of officers are hunting the men.
The street car station is in the heart of the business section and many people were on the street within a few feet of the bandits. Neither wore a mask.

Explosion Kills Man, Shakes Town
Peoria, Ill., Sept. 10.—One man was reported killed in an explosion at the plant of the Western Powder company at Edwards Station, fifteen miles west of here. The explosion was felt here, numerous windows being broken in the residence district.

Sultan Shifts Quarters Fearing Attack
Athens, Sept. 10.—Sultan Mehmed of Turkey has abandoned his palace on the Bosphorus, fearing an attack by a British submarine, according to private advices from Constantinople.

BIG ALLIED ATTACK ON DARDANELLES

Forces With Heavy Artillery
Massed For General Rush.

Sofia, Bulgaria, by way of Berlin and wireless to Tuckerton, N. J., Sept. 10.—According to information received from reliable sources, the allies are now concentrating large forces, including heavy landing artillery, for a general attack on the Dardanelles.

The presence of mine sweepers at Seddul-Bahr, near the entrance to the straits, is regarded as foreshadowing increased activity, including a vigorous bombardment of the outer Dardanelles forts.

Heavy Fighting Reported.
London, Sept. 10.—There was heavy fighting throughout Tuesday on the Gallipoli peninsula, in which the fleet of the allies joined, according to the "Daily Telegraph's" Mytilene correspondent.

The correspondent adds that progress was made by the allies on the Suvla bay front.
A Mytilene dispatch to the "Times" reports that as a result of the sultan's expostulations to Prince Ernst Hohenlohe-Langenburg, acting German ambassador to Turkey, 400 men from the Krupp works have arrived at Constantinople.

41 Norwegian Ships Lost.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Forty-one ships flying the Norwegian flag have been lost since the beginning of war in Europe, and seventy-six sailors perished, according to a report received at the state department from the American minister at Christiania. Thirteen ships were destroyed by miners, twenty-four were sunk by torpedoes, three disappeared in the war zone and one was crushed by a German warship, the report stated. Another ship was taken as a prize to Hamburg.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOMETHING NEW.

Cherry Cheese.
STONE ordinary ad cherries and chop them very fine, reserving all the juice. For each pound of fruit add half a pound of sugar. Stirmer until a smooth mass is formed, stirring all the time to prevent burning. It is a good plan when making this or any other sweet which requires long cooking to place the pan in a moderate oven, where it may remain several hours, simmering slowly, with no danger of scorching. Try the "cheese" by placing a small quantity in the refrigerator. When cool it should be quite firm. This conserve is delicious served in slices with whipped cream and white cake. Gooseberry cheese is made in the same way.

Raspberry Parfait.
Mix one cupful of powdered sugar with one quart of raspberries and mash through a fine strainer. Add to the juice one-third box gelatin which has been melted in cold water. Whip a pint of cream and beat the salted whites of three eggs stiff, mix the cream and whites together and fold it into the juice as it thickens. Freeze without churning in a mold packed in equal parts of ice and salt in a freezer.

Ice-Rice Pudding.

Wash and drain one-half cupful of rice, cover with two cupfuls of cold water and let it boil for twenty minutes. Drain and put in a double boiler with one cupful of milk. Cook until the rice has absorbed the milk and is very soft. Then press the rice through a sieve and return to the saucepan. Beat the yolks of three eggs with one cupful of sugar and add to the rice. Cook, stirring until it begins to thicken, which should take but a couple of minutes. Remove from the fire, add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract and one teaspoonful of lemon extract and set away to cool. Add two cupfuls of whipped cream and freeze.

Cheese Souffle.
Melt a tablespoonful of butter, stir into it two tablespoonfuls of flour, add a pint of milk, stir until thick and smooth, then add one cupful of bread-crumbs and one-quarter pound of American cheese. Season with salt and pepper. Remove from the fire, add the yolks of four eggs, mix, then stir in the well beaten whites of the eggs. Turn into a buttered baking dish, bake in a quick oven until a golden brown. Serve at once.

San Francisco Wants Boxing.
The business men of San Francisco—that is, a great many of them—have finally come to a realization of the fact that the boxing game was a great thing for that city in a business way, bringing thousands of country people and also other visitors into the city during the winter months. A prominent merchant of that city was at Milwaukee recently and stated plainly that an effort would be made again by the business men to revive the sport, but on a different plan than heretofore. "There is a feeling among the merchants," said the Frisco business man, "to try to bring the boxing game back, but under up to date methods. We do not want the ten round no decision game, but contests of, say fifteen rounds, with a referee's decision and under the auspices of a strong commission, the same as is in vogue in Wisconsin and New York."

Woman's Sacred Rights.
One reason a woman will not permit her husband to criticize her friends is that she considers it an invasion of her sacred rights.—Topeka State Capital.

BELTED AND POCKETED IN LATEST STYLE.

Junior frock of cotton ratine. The blouse has long shoulders and a panel front, while the neck is finished with a Quaker collar.

The dominant features of many of the modes for grownups are reflected in this smart little frock of cotton ratine, which has a full skirt, belted midy blouse, with shoulder yoke and Quaker collar. A novel touch may be imparted to the frock by belt, collar and pockets of colored linen. If the ratine is 36 inches wide 3½ yards will be sufficient to reproduce the dress, in medium size.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 6352. 15 cents.

Steady application to the work should result in the making of this dress in a day, with practically no difficulty. Beginning with the blouse, the first step is to turn under the edge of the front on slot perforations. Next, lap on side front to line of small "o" perforations, with notches even. The stitching should be about 1¼ inches from the folded edge and the edges to the left of the center-front left free for closing. After this gather upper edge of side front between double "TT" perforations. Close under-arm and shoulder seams as notched. Turn hem at lower edge on small "o" perforations. Face collar and collarband and join as notched. Large "O" perforation in collarband indicates center-front. Sew to neck as notched.

When cutting out the blouse the line of small "o" perforations which appear in the pattern can be traced on the material, so that when the pockets are adjusted they will be so placed that the upper edge of pocket will be along this line. The front of the pocket is indicated by large "O" perforations.

Next match the center-back of the belt with the center-back of the blouse so that they will be even, then adjust the belt to position, with the upper edge of belt at large "O" perforation in back.

Close the sleeve seam as notched, then sew in armhole, matching notches and easing in any fullness.

The skirt is attached to an underbody the lower edge of the front of which is pleated by placing "TT" on corresponding small "o" perforation. Close under-arm and shoulder seams as notched, turn hem in back at notches. Lap right back on left, centers even (large "O" perforations indicate center-back); stitch lower edges together.

Join skirt gores as notched; close back seam from large "O" perforation to lower edge; finish edges above for placket. Turn hem at lower edge on small "o" perforations; gather upper edge between double "TT" perforations. Sew to lower edge of underbody, center-fronts and center-backs even, side seam at under-arm seam. A string tie of velvet lends dash to the collar.

Sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Price.

A Biter Bit

By F. A. MITCHEL

[It is obvious from this story that the story teller was a young man bent on an adventure.]

One morning the postman left me a letter with the firm name of Outcalt, Hardy & Dunn, attorneys-at-law, stamped on the left hand corner of the envelope. I opened it and read the following, signed by the lawyers:

Your proposition to unite the properties so long in legal dispute by marrying Miss Auchincloss has been referred to her with our assurance that the tangle between the two can never be unraveled except by such a union. Present circumstances if continued will in time eat up a property which removed from litigation would produce an income of $5,000 clear of all expenses. Miss Auchincloss, never having seen you, desires us to send her your photograph.

It was evident to me that the letter doubtless intended for another Anthony Page had come to me. I enclosed my photograph in a note stating in substance the note I had received from the attorneys and adding that I did not care to act further through them, but would be pleased to form her acquaintance direct. I chose this course, thinking that the real Anthony Page might be known personally to Messrs. Outcalt, Hardy & Dunn and my photograph if sent to them would give me away.

In due time I received a note signed Bertha Auchincloss acknowledging the receipt of my photograph and enclosing one of her own. It represented a young girl of eighteen or nineteen, pretty as a peach and in whose eye lurked an inexhaustible fund of mischief. This will be a case of diamond cut diamond, I said to myself, and I see a lot of fun ahead. The letter was very short, stating that the writer agreed with me in direct action instead of the "horrid lawyers" and inviting me to call.

Without proper consideration as to the risk I ran of being horsewhipped by some of the young lady's relatives I went to see her. She came into the room smilingly and extended her hand, which I grasped and pressed. We began our acquaintance without the slightest reference to the subject of the union of property and so far as that first meeting was concerned, made no progress in coming to an understanding with regard to a union of properties. This was gratifying to me, for the moment we should enter into definite relations I would betray myself. On leaving I asked permission to call again, which was graciously accorded.

Having made no reply to the note of the lawyers, I did not hear from them again. So delighted was I with my success that on my second visit to Miss Auchincloss I ventured to mention the subject of my calls. She dropped her eyes to the floor and said that before the matter could be considered she must take time to have inquiries made concerning me. She could not even contemplate such a step without knowing more about me. I winced at this; it seemed impossible for her to make such inquiries without discovering that I was an impostor. Nevertheless, I braced myself and offered to give her references. To this she replied that she already had the names of some persons who could furnish the required information. Of course she meant friends of the real Anthony Page and I hoped he had a better character than I, though I did not express the hope to her.

Notwithstanding the perils by which I was surrounded my bark sailed on over an untroubled sea. At times I wondered how I could escape the dangers that beset me, but the truth is I was playing. My calls grew more and more frequent, but instead of taking up the matter on account of which we had come together she not only refrained from mentioning it, but discouraged my doing so. This, taken with the fact that nothing adverse had come from her inquiries, gave me quite a clear count.

Plunging headlong into love as I was, the time soon came when I made a declaration without confessing my identity. I told her that I loved her and were the property on account of which we had come together sent to the bottom of the ocean still would I love her, still would I marry her if she would consent. She did not drop her head on my shoulder and whisper "Yes." She burst into a laugh.

"The next time," she said, "you play a game like that, keep your wits about you. My aunt, for whom I am named, the lady you have supposed you were visiting. Since you first came to see me she has married the other Anthony Page. She is forty years old, and he is fifty. I took an interest in that case and remarked the handwriting of the letter he wrote my aunt and which was sent her by the lawyers. Believing that their reply to him must have fallen into the hands of a scamp—for the writing was not his—I sent for your photograph, thinking to have a little fun. Being pleased with it and realizing that it takes two to carry out a lark, I invited you to call. Accept my thanks for having afforded me the most amusing episode of my life."

I was mildly in love with a girl who had been fooling me. Nevertheless, I began all over again and in time captured her. She says that in marrying me she did better than her aunt with the other Anthony Page, since their property involved only a hundred thousand dollars, while mine is half a million.
